DOORNAILS

A Film by Cameron Saunderson | Written by Ciaran Barata-Hynes

SYNOPSIS:

Doornails is a film about the all-consuming nature of grief. Three friends sit in the woods consoling each other about the loss of a loved one.

ABOUT THE FILMMAKER:

Cameron Saunderson is an emerging Writer/Director from Leeds, UK. As Director, he regularly explores themes of personality disorders and exploring the inner conscious of one's mind.

He has written numerous scripts for a number of years including the feature-length script The Place Where The Echoes Live which he is currently seeking development funding for. Other scripts include Sunlight and I, The Pilgrim.

Cameron is also a graduate of University of Westminster where he studied History & Politics as his undergraduate Degree. He is currently pursuing a Masters Degree in Film, Television and the Moving Image, at Westminster School of Media, Arts and Design.

He has recently finished production on short experiments Dreamscape, Scope of Madness and Close, his first foray into longer-form dramatic narrative.
